RIM Trial Delayed

Thursday, November 17, 2005 - 01:40 PM
Vanessa Turner
MML Calaveras Bureau

San Andreas, CA -- A challenge of Calaveras County's Road Impact Mitigation fee will have to wait until next year.

The matter of developer Guy Meyers vs. the county was set for a five-day trial to begin Thursday but was continued at the request of Meyers' attorney Ken Foley of San Andreas.

It turns out Foley has a calendar conflict, Calaveras Counsel Jim Jones said.

Meyers is suing the county for creating the countywide mitigation fee, which charges developers fees for their projects' impact on local roads. He says the program is unconstitutional.

The case will be now heard February 23.
